KRIX

Introduction

A long time ago there was an alien race called krix. They are a type of civilization so advanced, they can control multiple galaxies. They can time travel and have altered their own evolution to make themselves aware of the future. One day they stumbled upon the earth to help and observe humans. They helped humans how to create tools, shelter themselves and harness the fire.

Body

Many years passed, and there was a man named Krain. Krain has a normal life until one night as he was walking in a forest alone, he stumbled into a group of people who were talking about killing the krix. As Krain was about to leave he tripped and fell in front of them. They were all looking at Krain with a terrifying face, as they were about to attack Krain. A man walked out in the shadow and everyone stopped! The man behind the shadow introduced himself to Krain, his name was Brock. He told Krain that his parents were killed by krix, because they knew something that the krix didn't. And he also told Krain that the krix are planning to take over the world so they could also harness the energy of this planet.

Brain believed all Brock's lies, so he was forced to join Brock's group to kill the Krix. Brock tricked Brain to join his group so he could frame him when they killed the Krix. Brock's real plan was to kill the Krix and take over their technology to harness their intelligence.

Ending

The Krix had future awareness so they knew a human would turn against them. They created an experiment to see if humans would really kill a Krix. The Krix created a perfect copy of themselves to prepare. As three days past by Brock's group were ready to execute their plan. As Brain was walking, Brock's men told Brain to ready. Brain agreed with them, but inside his heart he was a kind person who didn't want to kill a Krix. The Krix knew that the time had come so they sent the clone to walk alone in the forest as they watched from high to see what would happen. As Brock's group was about to attack, Brain told them that he had helped them since the beginning and all they wanted was to make humans better. But Brock stabbed Brain in the chest and attacked the Krix. As Brock's men were about to hand a hit, Brain cut 9.3 men and started fighting them all. Brain killed them all but Brock. Brock was about to bleed out and to pass out when Krix beamed him up, so he was saved.
