

Unexpected love by Hien

There is a lady who was very rich and owned a famous business company in Korea.

One day, when she was skydiving suddenly there was a storm with strong wind coming and taking her to another part of Korea. Then she was in a big forest and fainted. When she woke up, she realized there was something strange. She looked around and saw a lot of trees without anybody there. Then she started screaming for help.

Unfortunately, there was no one could hear her. She decided to find some way to get out of there. But while she was walking, she kept screaming. Immediately there was a group of soldiers who were patrolling in the forest. One of them heard her voice and he was trying to find her position. However, when they see each other, suddenly the lady was scared and try to run away because she saw that man with a gun. She thought he would harm her and try to catch her cause he may think she was trying to do some bad things there.

What happened next?

It was nearly dark. She found a village, she thought she had come back to where she lived. But not, when she got closer to that she found a weird village which the light turns on and off and not many people around the road. She was trying to borrow a phone to call her family. Unfortunately, that village, people don't use the phone and there was no connection or reception. What is more, she met a man who she had seen earlier. She decided to talk to him because she had no choice. Then he took her to his house and tried to get her information about how she could come here, because this palace and her place were totally different. It wasn't easy to travel between those places. Day by day he was trying to find ways to send her back, but many times it was unsuccessful. While she was staying there. She felt in love with the man who had tried to help her.

Finally, she decided to stay there with him, and they loved each other. After a year, they found a way that she could come back to her hometown. Although, her family thought she died because she hadn't contacted with them during that time and her family also couldn't find her. At the end her boyfriend and she came back to her hometown, and they met her family. They were all very happy and created a happiness life together.
