

"City friday"

A group of friends celebrated their master's degrees. They went to the club to dance the night away. One of them stood out, her name was Lily. She had beautiful long blonde hair and steel eyes, green tight dress and black high heels. She had a great time with friends until she walked up to a bar and a guy approached her.

-Would the dear lady like to dance with the raven?- asked the man with night-black hair. Enchanted by his brown eyes and soft voice, Lily immediately agreed. During several hours of fun Lily opened up to the raven man and he took advantage of it and took her heart, soul and mind. Our princess went out for a cigarette to rest from the impressions.

When she comes back she's looking for our prince with her eyes. She sees him somewhere in the back of the club, he noticed her too but bragged meanly. Some girl is flirting with her prince and he lets her and keep going. Our Lily wants to cry, her heart breaks more than once but now what she sees almost kills her. She also has a pretty face and flat belly, but she really does have those longer legs.

Here they pass by her and the raven man nodded and said „Hi!". Lily couldn't believe it, ran after them and threw her shoes at them.

Our dear Lily did not enter the club anymore, she walked around the city until she reached the bridge. The alcohol she had drunk pleasantly roared in her head and robbed her of rational thinking. She decided to jump off the bridge.

Lily couldn't swim.
