

The man and his Theatre

On a beautiful day, a wise man has opened a big theatre that everyone has loved. One Day he decided to make a change, so he closed his theatre and made a better one.

As many people were walking by, they decided to take pictures and post it online so then everyone knew about it. Days has gone past and not many people showed up.

He was very upset but next day, he was very surprised, and he couldn't believe his eyes on how many people came. He and his son cut the ribbon, and everyone was happy again to see the theatre back. As everyone went running, he was amazed on how he made a big difference.

Later that day as everyone left, he thought about something that made his mind blow. He thought of doing a performance where anyone who wants to participate can do what they love doing.

A few weeks later he went to put up fliers and he bumped into someone that he knew. They both started to talk for a while but then he said he wants to work with him, so the wise man said OKAY, but you need to go through some instructions. As they went back, they started to get some volunteers who loved to sing and who wanted to perform this day at evening time. So, they all came back the next day at noon and they all performed with confidence. They KILLED IT! So, the man said to the audience that if you ever want to achieve something now is the time to do it and they all loved what he had done.