

Once upon a time when I was 7 I went to the kindergarten I met my friend Sally.

Sally was younger but taller than me. At first glance she was smiling to me and then we introduced ourselves. The time was passing, we still have been friends. We passed by 8 years together. Our relationship have been always good but in 8th grade we started spending time and talking more togehter. Then the last year of primary school ended and the holidays time has come we spent a lot lot of time going out, talking and doing many things together. She has always been there for me and same as I. Im really grateful to have such a friend like Sally. Our relationship is really great now and I hope that in the future our friendship will be as good as it is right now.

Ily Sally<3